How successful is Kenya's off-grid solar access project?

The success of such initiatives is not isolated. The Kenya Off-Grid Solar Access Project (KOSAP), a flagship program by the Ministry of Energy and funded by the World Bank, aims to provide electricity and clean cooking solutions to remote and underserved counties.

What is the Kenya off-grid solar access project (Kosap)?

Please see the KOSAP website or read our press release on the launch of the project. The Kenya Off-Grid Solar Access Project (KOSAP) is a flagship project of the Ministry of Energy, financed by the World Bank, aimed at providing electricity and clean cooking solutions in the remote, low density, and traditionally underserved areas of the country.

How has Lighting Africa bolstered Rural Electrification in Kenya?

Launched in 2007 to address the global challenge of energy access for approximately 1.2 billion people lacking electricity, Lighting Africa has bolstered rural electrification in Kenya, with the country's rural electrification rate reaching 39.3% by 2018. An estimated 9.8 million Kenyans have benefited from this program (Lighting Global, 2018).

How many Kenyans use off-grid solar products?

Currently, it is estimated that nearly 10 million Kenyans use off-grid solar products as compared to less than a million in 2009 at the commencement of the World Bank's Lighting Africa project (Lighting Africa, 2018b). However, after several years of expansion, market growth has stabilized and slower uptake of solar products has become a challenge.
